The Nu-Way Paw Prints fundraiser for Providing Essentials for Tehama Shelter, or PETS, was a howling success for the fourth year in a row.

The homeless animals of Tehama County and the Animal Care Center benefit from the monies PETS distributes through various programs.

During the month of July, Paw Prints are sold by checkers and the family-run market in Los Molinos. As a bit of incentive, PETS provides a gift basket for the checker selling the most Paw Prints. This year's winner is Breanna Hope-Winning. Esmeralda Farias was runner up.

Organizers thank Nu-Way's Bo and Bill Patchen for making this all possible. Last but not never least, they appreciate the customers from Los Molinos and surrounding areas that shop at Nu-Way and support the PETS cause.

At the kickoff of this event, PETS held a meet and greet in front of the store. A gift basket was raffled off and information was exchanged. A few of the newer PETS programs were shared.

PETS is an all-volunteer non-profit dedicated to improving the welfare and creating public awareness of the abandoned, neglected and abused animals in Tehama County. It is committed to assisting the Tehama County Animal Care Center in completing its mission of practicing and promoting responsible compassionate care to all animals, both in its care and in the community.
